

RUN REPORT #2014

VENUE: MILTON PARK

HARES: ROYAL SCREW AND RON THE BOMB.

A reasonable size pack started off from Milton Park heading towards the river/Park Road, via the Auchenflower train station. The trail started out being marked quite well until Park Road / Milton Train Station, where all hell broke loose with the pack being sent every which way but together. The pack finally found each other on the way back to Milton Park. However, the rest of the run is just a blur as I broke down, so that is all about the run.

During the Circle, it was revealed that JC purchased a cheap Aldi roof rack then realised he could not fit the vehicle under the house anymore. Royal Screw tried to repair his own car before selling it but the buyer arrived when he was fixing it and has never been seen since. He then had to get a mechanic to fix his wonderful repair job costing Royal Screw $400. Luftwaffe once again took his seat on the ice for indiscretions occurring at the over 60's luncheon (not Multiple Choice's fault this time). Snappy should have known better than to tell a long story thus earning him Shit Of The Week.

Venue: Fucking Good

Run: Unrateable.

Food: Fucking Good food and cold beer.

Shit of the week: Snappy
