

Run 2373 – Craft's Birthday Run
Hares Scruffy & Craft

After battling through southside peak hour traffic from the Western Suburbs with my cut lunch, arrived at the venue to find Tinker the sole hashman on a road alongside Bulimba Creek-he convinced me we were in the right spot despite no evidence of hares or other hashmen.

Gradually the mob grew to about 30 before we took off into the predicable scrub. Not long a loop had us going back to the start and passed some grinning hares, Craft and Scruffy-was that a pharcup cause they should have gone the other way in the first place? It was then cross a bridge to a brief section of bitumin up Eromanga Street towards Scrubb Road-across Scrubb Road into Ewer St and this was the last bitumin we saw. The runners had dwindled to 8 including Tinker, Screw, Optus, Bugs, Moo, Forex, Grewsum and scribe. The run travelled up Belmont Hills Reserve and Moo was complaining about his lack of fitness -obviously not getting much!!

Onwards and upwards until we hit the freeway on the other side-the trail continued around Belmont Hill and back up again-it was 7pm at this stage and a fair way from Craft's birthday drinks. The only thing that spurred us on was knowing that those pharking walkers were drinking all the piss! About 7.20 , we burst open into the park near the start--good bush run-tad long !

Craft put on free beer and food which was greatly appreciated by all--not sure who got SOTW-too long ago.
