

Run 2380

Hash run report

The group gathered in the Belmont tavern car park. I just arrived to see wasta time being pushed around in a wheelchair before being loaded into anchovy's car. Taking the opportunity me thoughts there has to a story here but alas nothing particularly interesting except that though proposed use of the chair to allow whale to get about following a dodgy knee operation may be fanciful given size of whale and width of chair.

So onto the run. Divot in charge whilst 4x off somewhere. Run set by dole bludger and twin tub which is interesting as both these hash men gave up running years ago.

The run report is somewhat limited as the scribe is still recovering and unable to run so joined up with the walking dead. Tactically the walkers continually bumped into the runners who appeared to have no idea where the trail went and so on at least 3 occasions grewsome passed us after being in the lead group of runners checking back and losing the trail.

Followed by the sheep. Tight nut, craft,

Jc, scruffy, bugs and catgut

The quality of the run was evident by the fact the runners were drinking beer at the onon 10 minutes before even the walkers turned up.

The onon resurrected the hash anthem and then up with the usual miscreants. Lufty was nominated by multiple choice who went onto to create a record number of FSSS but still could not make it clear as to what the indiscretion was about. Zit was up for lack of arrows when setting the run but royal screw aka scruffy took the shirt for misunderstanding where he got married. Well it was a long time ago.

Food not sure. Drinks ok

Royal screw