

fRun/Circle Report

Run: 2611 - The Sound of Music Run

Run Date: 9 March 2020

Location: Chermside Hills Reserve, Cnr Hamilton & Trouts Roads, McDowall

Hare: Grewsome

Visitors: Local mosquito family

Out of the misty rain haze, growing darkness and the buzz of mosquitos, 12x hashers strolled into the Chermside Hills Reserve to begin a great run. For the sugar cubes that did not attend – you missed a great night.

Grewsome informed us that the walkers trail was marked with chalk and toilet paper; and no marked runners trail. There was 4x walkers – with Boxa doing his own walk trail, and 8x runners.

It is believed that Grewsome may be on assault charges whilst purchasing more than 4x packs of toilet paper at the local Woolies.

We set off with runners and walkers going in opposite directions and not meeting up again until the end. The runners with Grewsome calling the trail were immediately going uphill, headed into Raven Street Reserve and across the wildlife corridor bridge over Hamilton Rd. Continuing over Little Cabbage Tree Creek, before a short downhill reprieve. Uphill again before the run home in the bush of Martindale Street Park, and completing 5.3 Km. Boxa was setting up the beers, while we awaited the return of the walkers.

Over an hour after the 3x walkers set off on a 40-minute walk, the group began to discuss if a search & rescue plan should be enacted to locate the walkers. The scribe replied “he felt sorry for Bare Bum & Irish Joke being lost in the wilderness, but with Fingers also out there, then fuck them they are going to perish.” After 80 minutes Fingers returned on his own, with the other 2x walkers coming in another 10 minutes later – apparently Fingers had climbed over a fence on the trail and abandoned the others to their own fate. The walkers were blaming each other and the lack of a marked trail – but even a supplied map and Grewsome’s warning of - bring a torch or you’ll get lost again - couldn’t help them.

It is believed that the chalk markings may have been washed away in the rain; and locals on the tracks were gathering the toilet paper to sell on the black market.

The Circle was held under a most welcoming picnic shelter – out of the rain, but the mosquitos still lingered. No ice for anyone, only the beers.

Run: 7/10 – for there not being a single ‘check’ it was a very good run

Walk: 10/10 – Boxa said his trail was the best; the other three had no idea but the entertainment value after they returned was excellent

Circle: 7/10 – ran smoothly in the absence of Snappy Tom and Multiple’s chair

Food: 8/10 - it’s hard to beat cold beers and pizza
