Run No. 2664 "Radar's Route 66 Run"

Hares = Verbal Diarrhoea & Radar

Venue = Satay Ria Malaysian Chinese Restaurant, Shop 3 Cannon Hill Shopping Centre, 1145 Wynnum Road, Cannon Hill

About ten years back, I recall a conversation with Verbal Diarrhoea about a run he was receiving in the Minnippi Parkland swamps. This run had been a l-o-n-g time brewing. Radar had dragged himself back from his 66th birthday the day before (on the 6th day of the 6th month), which had included a ride up the infamous Mount Nebo Goat Track. So, with trepidation, I pulled on an old pair of runners, half expecting this run to include a swim leg across Bulimba Creek in almost sub-zero temperatures.

The numbers gradually grew in the darkening shopping centre carpark, until there were over thirty hashmen. GM Verbal Diarrhoea called the group together at 6:15pm. Walkers set off on chalk to the east towards The Gateway. About eight runners made a slow crossing of busy Wynnum Road, to also head east, past the Murarrie Recreation Ground.

At the Caltex service station, the trail suddenly turned right and into the dark & gloomy bush, on toilet paper. Check backs, swamp, shiggy, vines, logs, lantana. It was all there. We careened around like drunken sailors on a storm-tossed ship, not knowing which direction we were headed. Lengthy strips of toilet paper dangled from high up in trees. Now we knew what Radar had done with his COVID 19 toilet paper stash. Bugs, Optus & I came upon Minnippi Creek with running water, but somewhere the hares had found a narrow place to cross without getting our boots wet. This was following by a Re-Group atop a baseball style pitcher's dirt mound. Through the woods, we could see the dancing torches of XXXX, and further back to LAP and Multiple Choice.

We held the regroup until we spied the torches of the walking dead approaching. Not wanting to become entangled with that rabble, we headed on through the bush. Eventually we emerged through a broken fence and into streets of a new estate (was it Sutton Place?) and to a park where we found Radar with a drink stop. I commented that drinking his Stones Green Ginger reminded me of my first root as a teenager, to which Craft retorted "What was he like?". What a wit. At least, half one.

From the drink stop, the trail led down a footpath to a CB on Windrush Street, up Mckie Crescent to a two way on Munce Place, and then out Minnippi Boulevard. Here the trail split, with walkers heading home along Creek Street, and runners heading back into the bush. We traversed jiggered rock, a creek, and a trail that led behind Bunnings and emerged beside Aldi.

Boxa had backed the beer wagon up behind Automart. A lively circle ensued.

The hares Verbal D & Radar were summoned forth, and the run received rave reviews. Only 4km long and back in 45 minutes. Very unlike Radar! Had Bedpan set it, instead of him? Had he forgotten to f#ck it up?

Charges included:

- F#cknut for being pussy whipped into wearing pink (Rule #1?)
- Waste of Time for bring COVID from South Australia to Victoria & decimating the biggest Greek economy of the world
- Brengun in absentia (stand-in XXXX) for going to the wrong hash-run location the previous week
- Snappy Tom for dementia after confusing Barebum's update on Layup's health with the Brengun/XXXX saga (our best wishes for a speedy recovery, LAYUP!).

SOTW was XXXX / Brengun / Layup, depending on the confused state of the monk's mind. Anyway, XXXX drank a beer for it!

Inside the venue, Radar was true to his word and produced a bare-chested woman (on front of his T-shirt). The hares had organised quality free beers and expensive Brokeback Mountain wine. Meals were delicious and reasonably priced. The waitresses seemed to enjoy calling out all the hash names. Multiple Choice somehow confused his name with "DB" and almost ate Dolebludger's meal.

Top effort, Verbal D & Radar!!!

Run 9.5 / 10 (half mark removed, so as not to damage Radar's reputation, by insinuating that he set a good run!)

Circle 9/10 (Stand-in XXXX copped SOTW again)

Food 10/10 (Free booze!)

On on
