

Run Report # 2677

Hare Kreepy Krawler

It's a piss poor state of affairs when no one is being nominated for run reports and I step up and volunteer. What was I thinking. I was thinking what a piss poor effort by Kreepy to set a walk/run. I must express my disappointment at the level run setting has fallen. You'd think we're all old farts and are not up to it anymore. God forbid. When the walking pack ignores the on home 1st X and keeps walking something is seriously amiss.

Not to worry, if that is the worst thing to happen nowadays we are doing OK aren't we. NO it was a piss poor effort. Any ways, the walkers trail set off clearly marked from the car park, across the road, turn left at the lights onto Seventeen Miles Rocks Road and then we wander around like lost sheep trying to find the next arrow. 500 metres, yes 500 metres later at the next corner our revered GM finds an arrow on left. There were suggestions Kreepy had set it in his car but nobody believed that possible from a Hashman particularly Kreepy. The trail thereafter was clear and simple. It would want to be, it only went for another 1.5 klm before on home was to be seen. The pack ignored the arrows which is nothing new under different circumstances and we proceeded down to the walking track eventually coming back after just over 3 klms.

A short but good circle was had and once again there was no Monk to be seen. Snappy has excelled himself in being able to hand over the Monk chalice to 2 hashman, the 1st Divot who won't be back until November and as a reliable backup Brengun who either doesn't travel further than 5 klms to a run or continues to break multiple bones by forgetting he is no longer 21 and is a no show. Twin Tub availed us to yet again a reliably funny homespun anecdote. Mu was on the ice for something that I cannot recall and the groom to be Irish was again front and centre due to multiple indiscretions most notably taking a phone call from the new bride at a hash event and then immediately pissing off after taking a roadie from the bucket. Irish was able to keep the SOTW monica for yet another week.

On into the pub that provided a good discount on the food to we old buggars. General feedback was the nosh was good.

Run Score: 3

Circle Score: 8

Nosh score: 8 (it wasn't free)

ON On

Fucknut